Hi Tracy - I've prepared a response to Patrick Walsh at Denka. I would appreciate if you could do a quick review of my email as Bob is out this week. I'd also like to send this email to Patrick today since he include Vaughn on his email. Below is my response.

Thank you!

Hello Patrick - Please refer to the Guidelines for Ensuring and Maximizing the Quality, Objectivity, Utility, and Integrity of Information Disseminated by the Environmental Protection Agency for submitting your Request for Correction (RFC) to the Agency. I've also included the instructions listed in the addendum, dated 9/1/2020 below:

An affected person may submit a request via any one of the methods listed here: for

- E-mail at quality@epa.gov
- Mail to Enterprise Quality Management Division, Mail Code 2821T, U.S. EPA, 1200 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington, DC, 20460
- By courier or in person to Enterprise Quality Management Division, William Jefferson Clinton Building West, Room 6408A, 1301 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington, DC, 20460

While mail is a viable option I encourage you to submit your RFC to quality@epa.gov, as many of us are still teleworking due to COVID 19. This will ensure immediate receipt of your RFC.

With regards to having a "drop box" EPA does not have this type of mechanism in place.

Subject: How to submit Denka's new RFC?

Hi OMS,

We here at Denka plan on submitting our new RFC regarding chloroprene toxicity next week, barring any unforeseen circumstances. In discussing the format of the RFC with my toxicology consultants at Ramboll, we realized that the PBPK model code and other materials, all of which are vital to ensure that the agency can track and repeat what Ramboll did, are likely too large to be emailed to the agency and would probably best be submitted via some sort of Dropbox or other uploading mechanism. Can you provide me guidance on how you would prefer we get this information to you all? Again, we remain on schedule to submit on 7/15 or 16.

As far as the actual request goes, the RFC itself will consist of a letter that follows the Information Quality Guidelines, and the model and other information are exhibits to that letter. How shall I submit the letter? I can PDF it and email it to you, and/or if you prefer, I can print it and send it via US Mail. Please let me know how you'd like me to proceed.

Thanks!
